VOLUME III. BERKELEY, CAL., FRIDAY JANUARY 24, 1896. NUMBER 62

A THRILLING RIDE.

AN OAKLAND STREET INSPECTOR'S RIDE

Behind a Pair of Runaway Horses That Started on Their Mad Race in Oakland.

Thrilling Runaway.

This morning while an Oakland Street Inspector was riding down Seventh in that city in a surrey in company with a couple of gentlemen, his horses took fright and ran away. They turned into Peralta street and dashed out of that thoroughfare to San Pablo avenue into which avenue they turned and continued on in their mad career.

The two gentleman who were sitting in the backseat jumped out somewhere on the road and it was not learned whether they were hurt or not. The street inspector was glued to his seat with fear, and the horses dashed madly on. At San Pablo avenue and Dalton street they run into the numerous chuck-holes there caused by the caving of the sewer, but beyond tossing the driver up like a rubber ball did no damage, but still kept on until they reached the American Brewery on San Pablo avenue and Hoffman street, where they were stopped by Mr. Stein an employee of the brewery.

The frightened driver immediately got out of the carriage and stood trembling with fear, and he was a sight to behold, his face and clothing being covered with mud.

As soon as he could recover himself he telephoned to Oakland and had the stableman who owned the team come out and get it, he preferring to return on the cars.

It is the greatest wonder in the world that the man was not killed and the surrey demolished, as it came over some very rough road. The horses after their run of six miles were pretty badly winded, but they were so frightened they would have kept on until they dropped, had they not been caught.

Berkeley's Silk Factory.

The silk factory at North Berkeley is feeling the effects of the general business improvement. It now has more orders than it can fill immediately. Mr. Hilton, the proprietor, will soon erect a larger building and put in six more looms. Electric power will be employed. He is now getting ready for an exhibit at the Manufacturers and Producers Exposition soon to be held at San Francisco. As soon as the new building is completed and the machinery put in place several young ladies who have already applied for positions will be put to work. The force will be increased from time to time as the demand requires it.

A Rare Treat.

Mr. Armand Soloman, one of the finest violin soloists on the Pacific coast will assist the Berkeley Orchestral Society at their concert on the evening of January 31st.

The society is ever on the alert to present to the people of Berkeley the best talent that can be procured, and the coming concert bids fair to outshine any of the previous concerts. Get your seats secured, for past experience shows that the next concert will be crowded.

The GAZETTE office will be lighted tonight with lights furnished from its own electric light plant.

It Is Said

That the indications are that the storm is not yet over.

That a pamphlet was received at this office to-day addressed to the "Big Valley Gazette."

That Turner of the Haywards Mail has had another attack of melancholia, which shows more than ever that he should be locked up or have a guardian appointed.

That a week of good weather and warm sunshine would make the grass grow, the grain spring up, and best of all, make butter cheaper.

That in West Oakland the Republicans are declaring for H. W. Taylor for Assemblyman. Their ticket in that ward will be Taylor and Pelouze.

That the recent rains have caused the railroad company to increase the force of section men, and they can be found in gangs all the way from Sixteenth street to Port Costa, repairing damages done to the road bed by the storm.

That some six Berkeley ladies will join the Parlor of Native Daughters of the Golden West, which will be installed in Oakland this evening.

That some demon poisoned sixteen horses belonging to the Arctic Oil Works in San Francisco, on Monday last. The poison was placed in their drinking water. No punishment is too severe for the miscreant if he is caught.

That Ed Brennen has a long head on him as he just secured a large consignment of flour before the raise in the price of wheat, so that he will be able to sell it to his customers just as cheap as heretofore.

That there will be a large crowd in attendance at the Berg trial tomorrow, and that already speculations are rife as to what disposition of the case will be made by the jury.

That electric lights at the different railroad stations in Berkeley would be a great improvement.

That Deputy Marshal Kerns is now engaged in summoning a jury to try the case of A. Berg, charged with storing liquors without a license, which case is set for 10 o'clock Saturday morning.

That hereafter no more garbage from Oakland will pass through Berkeley as the Oakland City Council has contracted with Captain Haggerty to carry it out to sea for the next ten years.

That considerable real estate in Berkeley is changing hands of late. This shows that good times are near at hand.

That there has been a large amount of business accumulated for the Board of Trustees to transact at their meeting next Monday night.

That the amount of freight that is coming to Berkeley daily is increasing, and it will be doubled and thribled when the new wharf is built.

That the indications now are that East and West Berkeley and all other sections of Berkeley will join hands and bury all past feelings, and work together for the wharf and school bonds, and all other questions that are for the good of Berkeley.

That some steps should be taken to suppress the band of young hoodlums who make the night hideous in front of the Salvation Army Barracks every time that organization meets.

That while the milkman of Oakland and Alameda have been found to be selling adulterated milk, a test of the milk, served by Berkeley dairymen shows it to be absolutely pure and above the standard.

That now is the time to send in your subscriptions to the GAZETTE. No person should be without their home paper, and the GAZETTE, is the only daily paper in Berkeley that gives you all the news, and reliable news at that.

That the parties who sometime since wanted a subsidy to start a glass works at West Berkeley, are now endeavoring to have Martinez, Livermore and San Jose give them a subsidy. The smallness of the subsidy makes the people suspicious, especially when so much is promised.

SAYS IT IS FALSE.

THE YOUNG DENTAL STUDENT OF OAKLAND,

Who was Arrested in Kansas City for Robbery Telegraphs Home That the Charge is False.

Says It Is False.

The story telegraphed from Kansas City that Don E. Hawley, of Oakland, had been arrested there for highway created a stir among his many friends and relatives. He is a half brother of W. H. Fair, who has been appointed Chief of the Oakland Fire Department. Mrs. C. H. Hawley, owner of the Arlington Hotel, said yesterday that she had received a telegram which read as follows: "Don arrested on a false charge. Send $100. Needed to clear him. Don directs to send it to me. J. D. Patterson, Secretary."

Mrs. Hawley explained that Patterson was secretary of the Student's Association of the Kansas City Dental College, which her son attended.

"I have telegraphed for particulars," she said, "Don is innocent, I am satisfied. He is not inclined to criminal habits. He is past 21, and will graduate in two months. He attended the college five months last year and two months this term. His standing has been excellent."

Young Hawley was a student at the Toland College in San Francisco, but left there because of a difficulty with the dean over an examination.

Work Commenced.

The Berkeley Electric Lighting Company has commenced the work of placing the powor circuit for the electric lights to be placed in the University grounds.

The circuit will be from the Mechanical building to the Mining and Civil Engineering building, and thence to the South Hall and from there to the cottage occupied by the printing office on Allston way.

$10 Reward.

There have been several cases of cruelty to animals reported to the Berkeley Humane Society lately. One of the worst of these was cutting off a cow's tail, and slashing the animal with a knife. In the same neighborhood there has been considerable poisoning done. Inoffensive pigeons and dogs have been tortured to death, without any regard for their sufferings, or for the rights of their owners.

There is a good reason for believing that the perpetrators of these dastardly crimes live between Berkeley and Lorin. The above reward of $10 will be paid for evidence leading to conviction.

O. G. May,
Berkeley Humane Officer.
2123 Center street.

Quick Writing.

Any person that has much writing to do oftentimes feel the necessity of having some way to make a record that can be done quickly. The usual way is phonetic. About it there should, however, be a system. There have been many methods devised. From time to time these sight writings have been improved upon. The system now being taught at the Girard Hotel, Ninth and Washington streets, Oakland, has been in use in Germany for a number of years. By its simplicity it will, no doubt, take the place of all other styles, which are quite complicated, and take long practice before a scholar becomes competent to work with it to advantage.

By this system a Berkeley lady was able to write 208 words per minute after having devoted only 51 hours to the study and practice of it. Another young lady accomplished, after 51 hours study, the writing of 134 words. This goes to show that it can be easily learned, and does not take many hours of practice to become sufficiently adept to follow most of public speakers.

His Life Despaired Of.

It is an old maxim that states that sorrows never come singly, and such seems to be the case in the Lopez family of West Berkeley.

One week ago Joseph Lopez was stricken down with typhoid pneumonia from which he died in a very few days, and on Sunday last he was buried. At about the same time his brother, Alphonse Lopez, was laid up with a severe cold. On Monday he felt well enough to go to work, but upon his return home in the evening he was feeling so badly that he went to bed at once, and has never since left it. A physician was called on Tuesday to see the young man, and he at once pronounced him suffering from a severe attack of typhoid pneumonia. Since that time all that is possible has been done to check the disease, and today it was given out that the doctor gave no hope of his recovery, and it is very doubtful whether he will live through the night. Nothing except absolute quiet will give him any chance for life, and consequently no one is allowed to enter the sick room except the doctor and his attendants.

Fons Lopez, as he is familiarly known, was born in Berkeley, and is here. For some years he has been active in politics, and has run for constable several times. He is by occupation a teamster, and is in the employ of Ramon & Renas. His friends, and they are very numerous, will be shocked to learn of his serious illness. It is to be hoped that there may be a change for the better, and that he will pull through, both for his own sake and for the sake of his already afflicted family.

A new bulletin board has been placed in front of the Odd Fellows Hall. Upon it is information in relation to the meeting held through the week by the different lodges of Berkeley.

Work has been commenced upon the new entrance way of the University grounds at the head of Center street. When completed and the walks are finished it will be one of the most showy improvements made by the University people for a number of years.

Henry Osterman who has been laid up for the past three days with a severe cold, and an extremely lame leg, was able to be about for a short time today.

IS NOW ON TRIAL.

Ernest Mayrisch Arrested for Embezzlement

Of Funds from the County Treasurer's Office University Notes and Other News.

Mayrisch Trial Commenced.

The trial of Ernest Mayrisch Jr., indicted by the Grand Jury on a charge of embezzling $600 from the County Tax Collector's office, was begun yesterday in Judge Frick's court. A jury, composed of A. J. Mayhood, Fred W. Mowry, James Suter, Manuel Borges, E. Sutherland, W. Crawford, J. J. Santos, C. Stutz, Joseph Wohlfrom, E. W. Swain, M. Scheline and O. Feency, was secured. District Attorney Snook made his opening statement for the prosecution, and the case went over until today. W. W. Foote and E. K. Taylor appear for the defendant.

University Notes.

Lieutenant Frank L. Winn has offered to give the gun club free ammunition if its members will practice occasionally with the Springfield gun used in military service. If the boys become crack marksmen, the Lieutenant will arrange a match with other prominent clubs. It is hoped by the Berkeley men that Stanford will organize such a club and that intercollegiate matches may be arranged.

Miss Lou Whipple, president of the senior class has given notice that the class election will be held next Wednesday, January 29th. Much importance attaches to this election, as the senior president is the recipient of many honors.

There are about twenty students at the University from Yolo county, and these will meet to-night to form a Yolo county club, similar in some respects to the Belmont Club.

Josh will make its first appearance for the term next Monday with E. L. G. Steele as editor and James M. Oliver, business manager.

Percy G. McDonnell, manager of the '97 Blue and Gold, is hustling up the juniors to get their photographs taken immediately in order that the publication of the book may not be delayed.

The Students' Co-operative Store has just made public its report of the resources and liabilities of the concern. Manager Ralph Marshall's books show that the total resources are $8,781 76 and the liabilities $3237 74, leaving a balance of $5544 72, which is invested principally in stock.

This evening the Philosophical Union will meet in Professor G. H. Howison's lecture-room, North Hall. Professor Frederick Slate will read a paper on "The Bearing of the Latest Developments of Physical Science Upon the Relativity of Human Knowledge." The paper will be followed by general discussion.

Professor Hudson of Stanford University will lecture this evening in Lecture Hall, under the auspices of the Unitarian Society, upon "Walt Whitman." There is to be a course of six lectures on alternate Friday evenings, the other lecturers being President Starr Jordan, Professor C. M. Gayley, Colonel Charles R. Greenleaf, Helen M. Gougar of Indianapolis and Rev. Myron W. Reed of Denver.

Lifted From The Mud.

Expressman Anderson's wagon was demolished yesterday by the Berkeley local train at the foot of Steward street. The wagon took on a heavy load at Dalton's foundry and got stuck on the track at the street crossing. The horses were taken out and jack screws were sent for to raise the wagon from the mud, but before this could be done the Berkeley train came flying through and wrecked the wagon. It was impossible to stop the train on the short notice given. The front of the engine also suffered some damage.

Workmen are engaged in lowering the grade and crossing of Bancroft Way and Telegraph avenue. This is being done to stop the water from running down to Dwight Way and flooding that thoroughfare.

Sanitary Inspector Thompson has finished the inspection of the block bounded by Bancroft way, Dana street, Allston way and Telegraph avenue, and has ordered four vault closets taken out, several yards cleaned and leader pipes disconnected with the sewers.

Louis Woener of 527 Seventeenth street, Oakland, won the $5 prize offered by the manager of the Oakland theatre for the largest number of words from the letters in the name Jennie Calef. His list contained 300. Louis attends the Lafayette school, Oakland.

There has been considerable complaint made at this office of late by subscribers of persons stealing their papers, and in order to stop it we have determined to offer a standing reward of $10 for the arrest and conviction of any and all persons stealing copies of the GAZETTE from the doors or yards of our subscribers.

The carpenters of Berkeley are again suffering from the depredations of thieves. On Thursday night tools were stolen from Contractor Estee at the new house in course of construction on the corner of Bancroft way and Ellsworth street and a larger quantity, valued at $100, from a building just opposite, belonging to W. C. Morser and Z. O. Sprague, Oakland carpenters.

It now turns out that there has been no challenge received by the athletes of the University from the Yale college for a field day. The whole matter came through a private letter from a former student of the University, who is now at Yale, who wrote to know whether such an event could be possible in the future.

When Charles Morford was killed on Monday evening last he had in his possession a key belonging to the safe of his employers, but a search of his clothing and of the scene of the tragedy failed to discover it. On Tuesday evening a son of Marshal Lloyd found the key alongside of the railroad track, near where the man was killed, and restored it to the owners.

The Berkeley Gazette, a new paper published in Berkeley by Walker & Hill, made its appearance this morning. It is designed for the home and fireside and will contain a variety of matter specially adapted to evening reading. It is an eight page paper and certainly has diverse matter enough to please everybody. Mr. Walker is a well-known writer for the cosmopolitan press to which he has contributed many special articles of interest. Mr. Hill is better known as a newspaper business man. The paper starts off in good shape and undoubtedly will be a success.

Berkeley has about the worst telephone service of any town in the State. One can easily go and do an errand and get back to his place of business before he can get an answer to his call, and if he wants to talk to San Francisco, he has to take his chances of getting switched off half a dozen times before he can complete his conversation, and the charges of five cents a minute still goes on. Berkeley is entitled to as good service as any other place, and it will see that it gets it.

The GAZETTE is having some handsome news and sign boards painted for East Berkeley and Lorin.

MILLS ON FIRE.

TEN THOUSAND DOLLARS WORTH OF DAMAGE.

How the Schemers Received the Recall of General Campos, of Spain.

Special dispatches to the GAZETTE.

Del Monte Mills Afire.

San Francisco, January 24.—Fire threatened the total destruction of the Del Monte flouring mills at Second and Brannan streets this morning, shortly before 9 o'clock.

The mills were in full operation and a large force of men were at work on the top floor, where most of the machinery is located, when a blast of flame and smoke shot up through a shaft from the floor below. In a moment the big loft was afire, and the flames burst out of the front windows.

The men did not tarry long in the burning room, but rushed pell-mell down the stairs. An alarm was sent in from box 43, and when the advance guard of the Fire Department arrived it looked as if the big wooden structure with its four floors of grain and flour was doomed. Chief Sullivan ordered a second alarm sounded because of the inflammable nature of the building and its contents. He called it a tinder box and said he would take no chances. But it was an unnecessary precaution, for as soon as the engines got to work the flames were quickly subdued and the summoned assistance was not needed. The volume of water poured into the upper story seeped through to the lower floors and seriously damaged the stock below.

The fire patrol service spread a large number of tarpaulins and saved much of the valuable property. Chief Sullivan thinks that the fire was the result of an explosion on the third floor. There is a big wheel at wotk there in a shaft. The theory is that the heat generated by this wheel caused an explosion of floor dust, and that the fire then rushed up the shaft to the top of the building.

T. J. Parsons, ex Fire Commissioner is the president of the milling company and George D. Metcalf the secretary. The loss is placed at $10,000, covered by insurance. The top floor was completely gutted, and $1,000 of the damage was to the building. The balance was caused by the water.

Plots Against Campos.

New York, Jan. 24—A special from Havana to the World, after reviewing in detail the intrigues in Cuba to bring about the recall of General Campas, says: General Campos refused to resign, and placed himself in the hands of the Spanish Ministry. The responsibility was thrown on the latter.

The greatest difficulty in the way of success of the plot was the Queen Regent of Spain. This excellent woman is a devoted friend of General Campos, whom she regards as a father to her. Her consent was necessary before General Campos could be removed. A bold stroke was made to

It was represented to the Queen that the life of the Captain-General was in danger from the Havana mob; that his valor and tenacity would prevent him from avoiding or yielding, and that the only safe thing to do get him out of the way was to recall him. The fact was ignored that Havana was perfectly quiet, that there were plenty of troops within call, and that Campos himself reported no disorder. The Queen consented to his recall, and the enemies of the General triumphed.

Immediately after the order had been issued the Queen addressed a long cable message to General Campos. She informed him that she believed him to be in danger. She renewed her expressions of confidence and regard, and altogether sent a sincere friendly message that expressed her heart's feelings. General Campos understood the situation perfectly. He determined to go home untrammeled. He declined a highly honorable post offered to him by the government and he will immediately resume his place as a Senator of Spain.

OUR LAMPS NEED TRIMMING.

That was a sharp, quick shock given by England to the United States, when it woke us up from a Rip Van Winkle sleep. The electric fluid made a contact when it hit the Monroe doctrine, and caused a sudden awakening. Thence followed a grasping for the handy weapon of defense. Alas! it was a groping to find what was not there.

For years our country has lived along in quiet retirement, as far as foreign nations are concerned. We have been pleased with the idea that the prowess of our forefathers gave us a life lease of rest from foreign intrusion. Blackies have grown up in our candles until light has become obscured, and our vision is bleared as if from age. The arch enemy has ever been on the watch, seeing years gone by the coming of the blind security. The biblical warning has been unheeded, and we are now with arms about and legs astraddle, endeavoring to gain our natural equilibrium to strike back upon the foe when he makes an attack.

For years our country's defences have been allowed to become dilapidated. To be sure some repairs have been made. Here and there a new stake has been driven, and occasionally a new board nailed on to the fence going into ruin for want of proper care.

With a vigilant eye our inattention has been closely observed until the time arrived when we were unable to meet with any resistance the blows of an aggressor. Does any suppose for an instant that England's leading counselor would have dared to do what he has done were we fully prepared to instantly resent the insult backed up with a force to make our words reach their distined point.

Notwithstanding the words of advice and warnings [illegible] and learned leaders of the nation and the often quoted "in time of peace prepare for war" our sight has been dim and our hearing blunted. Of a sudden we are called by the clarion notes of war to withstand a conflict or forever after hold our peace.

The shock was sufficiently hard to awaken the nation to the fact that we have been sleeping and in the meantime the light of our candles have become dim and need snuffing.

Our weakest point in a war with foreign nations is our coast defenses. To successfully ward off the striking blow they must be prepared to resist any shock thrown against them. That our national government will throw a heavy weight into the field of defense and quickly render our outer line of defense sufficiently strong to resist any foreign force that may come against us is the wish and earnest desire of every citizen and the sooner it is done the better it will suit us all.

It may not be that there will be any occasion for its use but the very fact that we are thoroughly prepared for any event is a formidable weapon of itself to prevent any aggression upon the part of others. It is the fact that a thief knows an officer is prepared and has the power behind him to inforce the law and consequencely is kept in subjection until a loophole is left open for him to go through and he suddenly takes advantage of it.

That we are now awake it needs no pinching to tell us. We must be lively and get about and keep our candles [illegible] and not rock with a clear understanding and a knowledge that the hammer will always hit the nail square on the head every time no matter how the blow falls.

In the state of affairs now existing on the European Continent it does not require much of a prophesier to foretell the fact that a dismemberment of that part of the world as it is now constitued by different governments is sure to come ere very long. The fuse has been fired by which the powder will be exploded and the remnants will be scattered to be again picked up and rebuilt in a new form.

When our Congress appropriates means for our coast defenses it should not attempt to bore an augur hole with a gimlet. It should, like Sullivan, lay on its heaviest blows at the outset, and win the fight ere it commences. This means large appropriations sufficient to make the most of people frightened at its immensity, as far as dollars and cents are concerned.

Our country is in danger from abroad, but with those quickening powers for which the great American nation is noted we will vault into the ring with an easy handspring and bid the foreign nation who comes in the shape of Mr. Merrymen a pleasant "Good day, sir.

Fix up your lamps Uncle Sam. Put them in such good order that the flame will give such a glare that no foe will dare to come near its searchings.

J. J. Collins, manager of the Oakland Theatre, was in town today, looking after his advertising business.

A DOG THAT REASONED.

He Knew When It Was Safe to Sleep on His Master's Bed.

No one that knew Bombshell ever doubted that he reasoned and thought, but occasionally I would find a stranger who was not inclined to believe it, and then I would tell him the following story: My parlor was a front casemate which opened by an arch into my bedroom, a back casemate. A casemate may be described as a room in the wall of a fort, generally intended, in war time, to hold a gun or powder, while in time of peace many of them, like mine, are fitted up for use as quarters for officers and soldiers.

Bombshell had his own bed in the back casement, but he preferred my bed and would use it whenever he could. I had tried to break him of the habit, but had not been successful.

One day he came in wet and muddy, and, as, usual, curled up on my white counterpane. The result was awful. As much as I hated to do so, I felt obliged to give him a thrashing.

I never caught him on my bed again. He would still get on it, but, no matter how quietly I came in, I would always find him on the floor, though I could see that the rumpled counterpane on the bed that he had been on it, and often the spot where he had slept would still be warm.

One evening I went out, leaving Bombshell lying by the parlor stove. Out of curiosity I peeked through the half-turned slats of my shutters and watched him. From my position I was able to see the whole of both of my rooms.

For awhile Bombshell did not move; then he raised his head and looked at the door; finally he got up, stretched himself, yawned sleepily, walked to the bed, jumped up, and put his fore paws on it. Standing in this position, a thought struck him, and he said to himself:

"Suppose that my master hasn't gone? He will catch me and then I shall get a licking. I'll go and make certain that he is not coming back."

I know that he said this because he took his paws off the bed, walked cautiously back to the front door, and, with his ear close to the crack, he listened. At last, satisfied that I had really gone, he trotted back to the bed, jumped on it, curled up and went to sleep.

After such a clever act I thought that he had earned his sleep, so I went away and left him.—St. Nicholas.

Officials at the Foreign Office said they had no information regarding the statement telegraphed the "Pall Mall Gazette" from Constantinople. 36 1m ORDINANCE NO.

Relating to and regulating wash houses and laundries where clothes and other articles are cleansed for hire, and providing a penalty for the violation of said ordinance.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE BOARD OF Trustees of the Town of Berkeley, as follows:

Section 1. It is hereby declared and determined that the indiscriminate establishment of laundries and washhouses, where clothes and other articles are cleansed for hire in the Town of Berkeley, endangers the public health and the public safety, prejudices the well being and comfort of the community, and depreciates the value of the property in their neighborhood.

Section 2. It is and shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation, to establish, maintain or carry on the business of a laundry or washhouse in the Town of Berkeley without first having obtained a certificate signed by the Health officer of said town, certifying that the premises upon which said business is carried on are properly and sufficiently drained, that all necessary and proper arrangements have been made to carry on said business without injury to the sanitary condition of the neighborhood, that the stoves, washing and ironing apparatuses for heating smoothing irons are in good condition, and that their use will not be dangerous to the surrounding property from fire.

Section 3. The Health Officer of said town upon application of any one to open or conduct the business of a laundry or washhouse shall inspect the premises, in which it is proposed to carry on such business and ascertain whether or they are provided with proper drainage and sanitary appliances, and ascertain whether washing and ironing apparatuses and the appliances for heating smoothing irons are in good condition, so as not to be dangerous to the surrounding property from fire; and if found satisfactory in all respects, to issue to the applicant the certificate herein required upon payment by the applicant of the sum of five ($5) dollars, which amount is hereby fixed as the Health Officer's fees for such examination and certificate.

Section 4. It is and shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation, owning or employed in a laundry or washhouse, as herein found in this notice, in the Town of Berkeley, to wash or iron clothes between the hours of ten o'clock in the evening of one day and six o'clock in the morning of the following day, or upon any portion of Sunday.

Section 5. It is and shall be unlawful for any person, firm or corporation engaged in conducting the laundry or washhouse business as herein defined, in the Town of Berkeley, to permit any one suffering from an infectious or contagious disease, to lodge sleep or remain upon the premises.

Section 6. Any violation of this ordinance is hereby declared to be a misdemeanor, punishable by fine not exceeding the sum of $50. The judgment imposing the fine may provide for its collection by imprisonment in the County Jail of Alameda county, in the manner, at the rate and for the time provided by law.

Section 7. This ordinance shall take effect immediately upon its final passage, and all ordinances or parts of ordinances in conflict herewith are hereby repealed.

Section 8. This ordinance is hereby ordered to be printed and published with the ayes and noes for two (2) days in THE BERKELEY GAZETTE, which paper is hereby designated for that purpose.

Is a Countess and a Brewer.

A unique occupation for a woman is reported from Berlin. The proprietor of a large brewery there received a request from a Russian lady to be shown the interior arrangements of the brewery. After looking at various processes through which the golden beverage has to go the lady inquired for several details of the pneumatic machinery in the malthouse, which proved to the brewer, to his great surprise, that she was perfectly familiar with every detail of the entire complicated machinery. Upon inquiry it was found that the lady, a Russian countess, had a large acreage of barley growing on her estate, and in order to increase her revenue from this source she had built a brewery, which she managed all alone. She was interested very much in the pneumatic malting apparatus because she could not get skilled labor necessary for the production of malt on her Russian estates. Tasting the product of the Berlin brewery, she stated that her own beer was not much inferior to the German product. When a few days later the brewer received some samples of the lady's Russian beer, he pronounced it excellent and not inferior in any respect to the best Bohemian or German beer. This lady is believed to be the only woman brewer in Europe.—Philadelphia Record.

Cloth Made From Peat.

Peat fiber can be bleached to snowy whiteness and will dye any color. One of the great advantages of cloth made from peat fiber is that it is entirely antiseptic and possesses properties which render it inimical to parasitical organism. In appearance the finer makes are quite equal to the best tweeds and closely resemble the camel's hair cloth.

Withdrew the Charge.

"Is this your pug dog, madam?"

"Yes, sir."

"Then I beg the monkey's pardon."—Detroit Free Press.

THE WIND THAT SHAKES THE BARLEY.

Blow, boy, blow, for the wind is the boy's delight,
And the good clouds fly like sheep across the sky,
For the dear season smiles, as sun, and rain, and wind,
To the kiss of the sea their lover.

Blow, boy, blow, for the fields of barley green,
With the mad wind rushing over;
And hey for the path that runs between
Where my dearest waits for her lover.

THE 'BLOND BRAKEMAN'S STORY.

It May Be Read With Profit by Present Day Record Breakers.

The Railroad club met Tuesday evening in the usual place, and after a short business session the boys drifted into "shop" conversation. The fast run of the general manager's special from Hope to Missoula was commented on, and the talk on fast runs became general. Several stories of remarkable time made on different occasions were related, and when the blond brakeman got the floor he saw he was expected to break the record. And he did.

"Speaking of fast runs," said he, "why, that little Montana Union line lays over anything I ever saw. No Dutch clocks or anything else to hold a man down there. I worked for that road when Bob Smith was dispatcher, and when he told the boys to 'wheel 'em' we all knew what it meant. One day we were going north and were delayed in various ways until we reached Stewart. Bob wired the con. at that point that he wanted our train to get to Garrison just as quick as God would let us. We had a clear track when we started, and it wasn't long before the telegraph poles looked like a picket fence. The biggest burst of speed was reserved for the home stretch—from Deer Lodge to Garrison—11 miles. We didn't stop at Deer Lodge, but as we approached that place the engineer sounded the whistle as usual, and you may take my head for a football if the slow sign in the Garrison yards wasn't passed by our train because that whistle had ceased to sound."

This made the boys look weary, but the "braky" hadn't finished yet. He continued:

"Well, we put our train away and were resting ourselves when we glanced up the track and saw a dark streak approaching at a lightning gait. We were astounded for an instant, but as it slowed up we readily recognized it as the shadow of the train we had just brought in."

And the boys all rose up, and after presenting the relator with a regularly signed license the club adjourned.—Missoula Silverite.

A Beginning In Literature.

For my first efforts to sail the sea of letters it occurs to me that I ought to say that my father's literary reputation cannot be held responsible.

I had reached (to take a step backward in the story) the mature age of 13. I was a little girl in low necked gingham dresses. I know, because I remember I had on one (of a purple shade and incredibly unbecoming to a half grown, brunette girl) one evening when my first gentleman caller came to see me. I felt that the fact that he was my Sunday school teacher detracted from the importance of the occasion, but did not extinguish it. It was perhaps 8:30, and, obediently to law and gospel, I had gone up stairs.

The actual troubles of life have never dulled my sense of mortification at overhearing from my little room at the head of the stairs, where I was struggling to get into that gingham gown and present a tardy appearance, a voice distinctly excusing me on the ground that it was past her usual bedtime and she had gone to bed. Whether the anguish of that occasion so far aged me that it had anything to do with my first literary undertaking I cannot say, but I am sure about the low necked gingham dress, and that it was during this particular year that I determined to become an individual and contribute to The Youth's Companion.

I did so. My contribution was accepted and paid for by the appearance in my father's postoffice box of the paper for a year, and my impression is that I wore high necked dresses pretty soon thereafter and was allowed to sit up till 9 o'clock. At any rate, these memorable events are distinctly intertwined in my mind.—Elizabeth Stuart Phelps in McClure's Magazine.

Uncertainty and Certainty.

Two men met unexpectedly in the corridor of a down town office building.

"Hold on, William! What's your hurry? How are you? You look worried. Anything wrong?"

"Not much, but to tell you the truth, I'm not sure—and I can't tell whether he has lied to me or not. How are things with you?"

"So so. I've just had a big disappointment, that's all."

"You take it easily."

"Think so? I've had a deal on hand for three months, and I expected to close it out today, but this morning the other party told me frankly that his principals couldn't take it up. Now it's off my mind and I'm glad of it."

"Sure there's no funny business?"

"Sure."

"I wish I was. So long."

One man smiled and the other scowled.—New York Times.

He Understood.

Paul Louis Courier, when bitterly assailed by a French professor, quietly remarked: "I fancy he must be vexed. He calls me Jacobin, rebel, plagiarist, thief, poisoner, forger, leper, madman, impostor, calumniator, libeler, a horrible, filthy, grimacing ragpicker. I gather what he wants to say. He means that he and I are not of the same opinion, and this is his only way of putting it."

The war with France lasted from July 9, 1798, to Sept. 30, 1800, and the number of men engaged, in the naval force alone, was 4,593. The land forces raised for this campaign cut no figure.

The word "and" occurs 35,543 times in the Old Testament, and 10,684 times in the New Testament.

MEN WORSE THAN APES.

Revolting Customs of Some of the African Cannibal Tribes.

The cannibalism of the black secret society known as the Human Leopards in the country near Sierra Leone brings forcibly before us the difference between the east African and west African habits of eating human flesh. The Sherbo cannibals waylaid and killed their victims and afterward feasted on their flesh. The cannibalism of the east coast is of a very different kind. The flesh of the victim is not regarded as ordinary food, but as containing in a concentrated form the strength, courage and manliness of the person killed, and a portion of this is offered, with a dim sort of sacramental meaning, to travelers who become guests of the family. To refuse it would be a deadly insult. To accept it is a passport to the privileged position of a friend of the house. Many of our travelers in east Africa have eaten thus sacramentally of the ancestors of some dark skinned potentate.

The cannibalism of the west coast is of a more horrible kind, connected with fetichism, the worst developments of which are peculiar to that country. But there is a hideously genuine appetite for fresh human flesh still existing among the negroes of west Africa. This cannibalism manifests itself in a refinement of gluttony which has its mild analogy in the feasts of Europeans. Young boys are bought from the dark interior, kept in pens, fattened upon bananas and finally killed and baked. To these Thyestean feasts come not only the savage chiefs of the interior, but also, it is whispered, black merchants from the coast. Men who appear at their places of business in English territory in broadcloth and tall hats, who ape the manners of their white masters, are said to disappear annually into the interior, where, we are told, they might be seen in naked savagery taking part in the banquets on plump boys, in which they delight.

Be this as it may, somehow the native of the west coast and its Hinterland is unlike the East or South African native in the deep lying savagery and the extraordinary facility for returning to it which are his leading and very unpleasant characteristics. The subject claims the attention of the anthropologist, and certainly suggests a curious reason for questioning the relationship of the black man and the ape or the gorilla, seeing that the race of monkeys seems to be singularly free from anything like cannibalism.—London Saturday Review.

HOLES IN THE CANVAS.

An Important Discovery Increasing the Efficacy of Sails.

An Italian sea captain, Gio Batta Vassallo of Genoa, has made a very interesting innovation in the use of sails of ordinary sailing vessels. He claims that the force of wind cannot fully take effect in a sail, since the air in front of it cannot properly circulate in the inflated part and remains stationary immediately in front of part of the sail proper. He avoids this stagnation of air, as he calls it, by the application of a number of small holes in that part of the sail where the depression is deepest when it is filled. These holes are re-enforced like a buttonhole, so that they will not tear out.

Trials made in various weather have resulted as follows: With a light wind a boat with ordinary sails made 4 knots, while the new sail increased the speed to 5½ knots. In a fresh breeze the respective speeds were 7 and 8¾ knots, and in a strong wind they were 8 and 10 knots an hour. It stands to reason that the doing away with a layer of air which cannot escape past the sides of a sail must increase the efficiency of the sailboat. Where the wind formerly struck a cushion of air which acted like a spring mattress, decreasing the actual pressure of the wind against the canvas, this current of air now strikes the sail direct and of course has a greater efficiency. Vasallo has received much encouragement from practical sailors as well as theoretical scientists.—Philadelphia Record.

Football in Africa.

Englishmen are proverbial for taking their games with them into whatever part of the world they go. Golf, as we know, is played in the shadow of the pyramids and, in the very heart of the Himalayas, but football in the middle of darkest Africa is something of an innovation. Yet football is rapidly becoming popular on the shores of Lake Nyassa, and at Kotakota, which a few years ago was notorious as the greatest depot for slaves on the western shore of the lake, mixed teams of black and white meet every Saturday with as much regularity as do our home teams, though the local chronicler omits to say whether Rugby or Association has won the suffrages of the Nyassa teams. One startling feature of the game is that the black players decline to hamper themselves with boots and find apparently no inconvenience in playing with bare feet.—London Cor. Manchester Guardian.

Brevet Rank.

The story is told of a soldier of the Army of the Potomac who had his own ideas as to his financial value, as well as the method by which that value could be realized.

He was a white man and was detailed for service as a teamster in a train which was driven for the most part by negroes. The negroes were hired at the rate of $25 per month, but the white soldier received no more than his regular pay of $16.

He appeared somewhat dissatisfied with this arrangement and made an application to his captain.

"I should like," he said gravely, "to be appointed a negro by brevet, and be assigned to duty in accordance with my brevet rank!"—Youth's Companion.

Our Busy Day.

How many of us have sympathized at one time or another in our lives with the old lady who said she had so many things to do she guessed she'd go to bed.—Somerville Journal.

"I would die for you!" passionately exclaimed the rich old suitor, and the practical girl calmly asked him, "How soon?"

The manuscripts of the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries are, in many cases, almost illegible on account of the fading of the ink. At that time the lampblack inks passed out of use and chemical inks became popular.
